ABOUT THIS REVISION TIMETABLE

- ★ There are 21 normal revision slots and 7 'quick-fire' revision slots on this timetable
- ★ Normal slots are for longer stretches of study or practice.
- ★ Quick fire slots are for shorter bursts of retrieval practice or short answer questions
- ★ The timetable covers the whole week including the weekend
- ✔ You may block out / cancel up to 4 revision slots across the week for hobbies or free time
- ✔ You may block out / cancel one quick-fire session

FILLING IN THIS REVISION SCHEDULE

- □ On a separate piece of paper, make a list of all the subjects that you study for GCSE
- □ Make sure you have listed two subjects for English (language and literature) and separate sciences for science.
- □ Now cross out subjects that don't have any exam elements
- □ If you know them, for the exam subjects make a list of the topics you have to study within each subject (but don't worry too much for the moment if you don't)
- □ Next, using a pencil, choose four longer slots and one quick fire slots and put a cross through them. SPACE OUT THE SLOTS. These are times you won't revise.
- □ Next, using a pencil, write in the subjects you will study in each normal slot. As a guide you should give 3-4 slots to English, 3-4 slots to maths and 3-4 slots for Science. Exam subjects with controlled assessment or coursework elements will need less study time. Don't do all English one day. Leave time between subjects.
- □ Next write in the times you want to study. This is up to you and should fit around your life and hobbies outside of school but remember – studying late is not good and you must get enough sleep. You must also have regular breaks between studying. You might want to consider a sunrise slot at 7am-7.45am!

- □ Finally, fill in the six ‘quick fire’ slots with six subjects. Use a pencil.
- □ Leave the topics sections blank for the moment – with a pencil add these on a weekly basis to give focus and rub out and start again each week.

What can I do in normal slots:	What can I do in quick-fire slots:
- Make notes from and condense notes from exercise books and revision guide - Create flashcards - Look / cover / write / check key factual information - Complete practice exam questions in timed conditions - Create a mind map, diagram or visual representation of knowledge Speak to your subject teachers about other things you can do here!	- A quick-fire quiz - Learn 20 spellings off by heart - Complete 50 short mathematical problems - Complete a short answer questions - Ask someone to test you on flashcards or test yourself - Look / cover / write / check something until you get it right -
